

Eucharistic Prayer

The God-Who-Provides is with you.

And also with you.

Lift up your hearts and open your eyes.

We lift our hearts and eyes to the God-Who-Provides.

Let us share with thanksgiving from the God-Who-Provides.

We share what has been given with thanksgiving and praise.

Christ is the Bread of Life:

The Bread of Life is broken.

The Bread of Life is risen.

The Bread of Life will come again.

Our Provider, in whom all goodness resides, we praise you.

May your good garden come and your good will be done within this wilderness, as within your Great Shalom.

Provide what we need for today

and show us how to share for tomorrow;

and forgive us when we fail, as we forgive the failings of others.

Remove from us all that would lead us astray

and deliver us from the suffering we inflict upon ourselves, for the great gift of this earth, and the abundance thereof, belong only to you, in your Great Shalom, now and forever.

Amen.
