

In the last days it will be,
God declares, that I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh . . . Acts 2:17a

May the glory of the Lord endure forever; may the Lord rejoice in his works.

Now there are varieties of gifts but the same Spirit, and there are varieties of service but the same Lord.

in me drink."

"Spirit, Spirit of Gentleness"

Prayer for Wholeness

Holy Spirit, you move through every barrier we build and you speak life in every language.
Where we have resisted your freedom, soften us.
Where we have silenced one another, open us.
Where fear has taken root, breathe courage.

Let your fire kindle compassion in us.
Let your wind carry us toward justice.
Let your presence make us whole—not by returning us to what was,
but by sending us forward renewed.
Come, Holy Spirit. Make us new. Amen.

Response 288

*Spirit of the living God, fall afresh on me.
Spirit of the living God, fall afresh on me.
Melt me; mold me; fill me; use me.
Spirit of the living God, fall afresh on me.*

Pentecost

May 24, 2026

11:00 a.m.

Pentecost

We were sitting around talking about how he loved us,
when it flared up in us—not a memory,
but inward fire, the love itself,
like a mother's love that drives her into a burning house to save her children—his love, this unbidden passion for the world, flamed up in us and drove us into the streets to seek the stranger, to embrace the foreigner, and to speak—how to convey it?—this love for all who'd been told they were outsiders,
in languages not our own:
locked doors opened,
fruit placed in their mouths,
hands laid on their shoulders, belonging nested in the crib of their hearts. Homecoming.
That day there were no strangers.
We were all kin, all learning how to listen together for the first time to this mystery rising up to greet us in each other, all of us losing our tongues for the language of God.
Then we knew that fire Jesus had had not been put out:
it was in us, now, spreading, yes, actually,
like wildfire.
